

CLEVELAND TECHNICAL SOCIETIES COUNCIL Professional Achievement Awards

THE ROBERT B. CUMMINGS DISTINGUISHED LEADERSHIP AWARD

This award is bestowed annually upon an individual who is or has been closely associated with engineering or technical work, and who has contributed greatly to the advancement and welfare of the engineering or technical professions. The individual must have achieved true and lasting prominence over a period of years, and must also have shown community spirit and leadership in worthy non-professional activities. The legendary Frederick C. Crawford was first to receive this honor in 1947.

THE TECHNICAL ACHIEVEMENT AWARD

This award is bestowed annually upon an individual under 40 years of age. The individual must be actively contributing to the field of engineering, science or technical education, and must have demonstrated outstanding performance, creative ability and technical competence in his or her professional duties. Recipients must give promise of continued success in improving the standing of their professions and must also show community spirit and leadership in worthy non-professional activities.

THE TECHNICAL EDUCATOR AWARD

This award is bestowed annually upon an individual who has made a substantial contribution to technical education methods and/or is considered to uniquely inspire students to pursue technical fields. This individual has demonstrated outstanding performance, creative abilities, technical competence and integrity in the practice of his or her technical discipline.

THE VISIONARY AWARD

This highly selective award is conferred periodically in recognition of outstanding vision and exemplary service to the professions, the community and the Council.

Nomination Specifications

- This must be sufficient proof of the candidate's contribution(s) to warrant the nomination. Limit biographies to three (3) pages.
- Information on non-professional activities which contribute to an understanding of the character of the nominee is encouraged.
- A maximum of five (5) testimonials, limited to one page each may be attached.
- Nominees must be United States Citizens, residents of the United States, and members of a CTSC affiliated society.
- The recognition will be restricted to accomplishments while working and residing in Northeast Ohio.
- A technical degree is not a prerequisite

Watch this space for the latest information and nomination forms for CTSC Professional Achievement Awards.